Projects Partnership appointed to prestigious regional framework panel

The Projects Partnership has been appointed to the legal services section of the East Midlands Regional Framework panel of professional services providers. The Framework was established by Leicester City Council in partnership with the East Midlands Centre for Procurement Excellence and Northamptonshire County Council. Panel members will provide services to local authorities, fire and police authorities, NHS joint commissioners and housing associations across the East Midlands, as well as authorities who are part of the Central Buying Consortium in the south of England.

The Projects Partnership will be providing legal and commercial advice to authorities on the development of innovative public service partnerships, such as outsourcing, joint ventures, PFI/PPP, Building Schools for the Future and other forms of partnership model for public service delivery.

Managing Director, Mark Johnson commented, "Securing a place on this panel is a great accolade for The Projects Partnership and reaffirms our position as a leading player in legal advisory services for public service partnerships. The rigorous procurement process for the panel was designed to encourage innovation, best practice, strong project management and partnership working, whilst securing excellent value for money for the participating authorities. Those are all values that chime 100% with our clear and unique focus on the delivery of legal advice for public service partnerships. We are delighted to be building on our existing strengths by supporting more authorities in the East Midlands and nationally on complex procurements".
